

Why do I Need a Morning Pulse Reading?

- The morning pulse, taken while you are lying down in bed, provides a baseline for the day. A healthy person doing regular activities (not including exercise or other high exertion tasks) has a pretty steady heart rate throughout the day. When exposed to something questionable, the heart rate may increase outside of the normal daily range.