

Why is My Stress High after Exercise ?

- During exercise, your nervous system changes to a stress state to support the activity.
- After exercise, it may take several hours for the nervous system to return to normal.
- So after exercise, you may see elevated stress levels.